PISTOL SHOT WRITES "FINIS" TO A VARIED AND REMARKABLE CAREER SACRIFICED IN THE INFATUATION FOR MME. DE BONNEMAIN-BE-CITEMENT AT BRUSSELS.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 30.—Gen. Boulanger committed suicide today on the tomb of Madame de Bonnemain, who died recently in this city. Madame de Bonnemain has been known as the mistress of the dead general. She accompanied him to Frederick Sept. mistress of the dead general. She accompanied him to England after his flight from France and early in July last she was dangerously ill in Brussels, suffering from consumption. A Paris physician went expressly in order to treat Madame de Bonnemain by a new system of treatment, consisting in inoculating the person affected with the germs of phthusis with gayacol, which is obtained from creosote. However, in spite of the efforts made to save her, Madame de Bonnemain died during the evening of July 17.

Gen. Boulanger committed suicide at about noon. He stood alone by the grave of his mistress for some time, appearing to be deeply aftersely and the save her appearing to be deeply aftersely and the save her appearing to be deeply aftersely and the save her appearing to be deeply aftersely and the save her appearing to be deeply aftersely and the save her appearing to be deeply aftersely and the save her appearing to be deeply aftersely and the save her appearing to be deeply aftersely appearing to be deeply aftersely and the save her appearing to be deeply aftersely appearing the save her appearing the save her tress for some time, appearing to be deeply af-fected by sorrowful recollections. An attend-ant of the general, who had respectfully re-mained at some distance from Mme. de Bonne-main's tomb, suddenly heard a sharp report in that direction. Running to the spot the atmain's tomb, suddenly heard a sharp report in that direction. Running to the spot the attendant found General Boulanger lying dead upon the ground with a revolver clenched in his right hand. A hasty examination of the body showed that the dead man had placed the weapon to his right ear and fired the fatal shot. The affair has caused great excitement in this city and some commotion among the general's followers in Paris. The police and the dead man's friends here have taken possession of his lodgings and they have not yet announced if he left any statement.

His descent on the maternal side is Weish. In 1855 Boulanger entered the military college of St. Cyr and was made sublicutenant in 1857.
He served under Marshal Ranolon in the Kabyle campaign. He also took part in the Franco-Italian war and was wounded in the battle of Turbigo. In 1860 he obtained his full licutenancy, and two years later was promoted to a captaincy, having in the interim seen service in Cochin China. Just before the war of 1870 he became major. He was with Bazaine at Metz, but by some means escaped the fate of Bazaine's army, and made his way back to Paris. He was then promoted to a lieutenant colonelcy by the government of national defense and fought at Champigny (November 30 to December 2). After the sup-pression of the commune Boulanger's newly at-tained promotion was quashed by the "grade revision committee," but was restored him in 1874. In 1880 he became brigadier general.

league, of which he was the head, was subse-quently suppressed, and the general was tried by the senate on a charge of having, while war minister, appropriated £10,000 of public money for purposes of his own propaganda. He was found guilty. To avoid arrest he fied first to Belgium, then to London, where he arrived April 24. The general was elected at the gen-eral election (September) for Montmartre by small majority over M. Jofferin, but the elec-tion was annulled. The general then retired to the Island of Jersey, and later removed to
